

Sand Dunes Trip Report

Seventeen of us met at the Steeles Parking lot for this months trip to the great kitty litter box outside of Walden. We were amazed when Shane Payton pulled up in his pickup, sporting a big blower sticking out of the hood. Shane is an over the road trucker and his schedule has prevented him going on our trips for the last couple of years. We all had to gawk at the blower and then it was time to head to the dunes.

The trip over the hill was uneventful. We made the obligatory potty box stop on Cameron Pass and when we got to the dunes we met up with Mike B. and Darwin who had come up the night before and camped out. We also met Ross and Ben who had come up earlier in the day. After removing doors and airing down we all headed out on the sand. As usual, it was play as hard as you can. When we got to the big bowl, Ben was one of the first to go up the hill. He had a little to much speed and jumped the Bronco pretty high into the air. The landing was hard and when he came back around to where the group was sitting, we all urged him to do it again and this time we would have our cameras ready. Ben did take a couple of more trips but they weren't as spectacular as the first.

After lunch the group headed to the creek bottom. We all sat and watched those with the big engines come out of the creek bottom. It took several tries but they all made it out OK. Then Darwin couldn't stand it any longer, he put his 6 cylinder over the hill. Darwin tried several different lines and after huffing and puffing he found the right approach. That opened the flood gate for the rest of the 6 cylinder vehicles to give it a whirl. While all the this was going on, over the dunes comes Ross in the Rocking Ghost sporting great big ol' paddle tires. They worked pretty well but he soon discovered that it takes a lot more power to push them and he eventually changed back to his regular tires. Speaking of power, Shane's blown Chevy sounded awesome and performed well until he took out the spider gears in the front end. At the other end of the power spectrum was Todd McCurry and Rosemary (lets not forget the cootie kids) who were all packed into their Zuke. They did OK on the rolling hills but when it came to the bigger hills he was wishing that he had more than a half an engine.

There was no reports of any major breakage other than Shane. It was just another glorious day at the beach, wheeling with the Mountaineer family.

Halloween

Thanks goes out to Gene and Sharon Kapperman for hosting our annual Halloween party at their house. It was a rousing success. We've never seen so many pointy heads in one place. There must have been at least a half dozen witches in attendance. There were enough tasty treats to feed an army and it was fun trying to guess who was under that mask in a few cases. The Kapperman's are already making plans to expand next years party to include kids games and a barbecue. If you missed this one, you missed a great time and some good company. Thanks again Gene and Sharon !!!!
